IRRITATION IS INCREASING

Feeling Against British Government For Hampering Trade.

NEW NOTE OF PROTEST

Manifest Resentment of Evident Attempt of British Foreign Office to Impute Bad Faith.

Washington, June 26—Irritation against British hampering of American trade is increasing.

This is evidenced by the letters reaching the responsible departments of the Government from every section of the country.

It is accepted that as a result, the new note of protest now under preparation by Secretary of State Lansing, will be expedited It would cause no surprise if it were sent forward soon after President Wilson returns to this city.

Only a sharp rejection of the American demands by Germany, it is said, will change this program, And all of the word from Berlin, official and unofficial, indicates that Germany has decided on a policy of conciliation

Officials who have closely followed the situation resent the evident attempt on the part of the British foreign office to make imputations of bad faith. The charge that this Government is conspiring to help American exporters hoodwink the alies and keep Germany supplied with needed goods in defiance of the British order in council, which is implied in the last memorandum handed to Ambassador Page in London, is resented, and it is said to be certain that the British government will be told so in unmistakable terms.

The United States has positively refused to recognize the right of the allies to blockade Germany by indirect methods.

GERMANY'S BIGGEST TASK

They Find the English Never Retire, But Rarely Attack.

A Swiss military officer just returned to Zurich from a prolonged tour through Germany has just published some highly interesting impressions

Military men, officers and men alike seemed to agree, he says, that Germany's hardest task lies in the west rather than in the east The English he was told, are extremely solid fighters, never retire, but on the other hand, rarely attack, The Indians, on the other hand, are fond of attacking, but lack perseverance. The famous Prussian Guard has suffered enormous losses and there was a tendency among its members to think that the Emperor and the General Staff had at times demanded too much of them.

He found the cafes restaurants and theaters of Berlin filled with soldiers, wounded and unwounded.

"Iron crosses abound," says this Swiss officer. "A quarter of the men I saw wear it, and as a consequence no one values it much. I paid a visit to one of the neighboring drilling grounds, where I found recruits under instruction. Each non-commissioned officer was drilling between 20 and 30 recruits, who did not seem to enter into the exercises with any great enthusiasm. Some of them were quite young; others were in the forties.

"In the evening I went to the Cinema Theater, which I had visited before the war. On that occasion a film showing the Emperor at the head of his troops was greeted with tremendous applause, whereas this time views of the Emperor at the front were looked at in silence.

"Continuing my journey toward the north, I came across an under-lieutenant of reserves, a heavy, grey-haired, middle-aged fellow. He spends his time in instructing recruits. He told me that the new German levies remain three months only at the depots before going to the fighting line."

CZAR RESUMES THE OFFENSIVE

Hurls Pursuing Austro-Germans Across the Dniester.

ADMITTED BY BERLIN.

Believed in London That Kaiser is Withdrawing Troops From East For Use in West.

London, June 26.—At three points along the Dniester river the Russians have resumed the offensive and hurled the pursuing Austro-German armarmies across the river.

The anouncement of these victories by Petrograd is officially admitted in Berlin. This blocks temporarily at least one of the three great movements launched by the German general staff following the victory at Lemberg and the pursuit of the retreating Russians.

North of the region, in Northern Galicia and in Southern Poland the Austro-German advance continues.

Military experts in London are of the opinion that the extent of the movements in the eastern theater of war and the extreme activity of the Austro-German forces are but cloaks to the real purpose of the general staff and that actually huge bodies of troops are being withdrawn under cover of these movements.

These troops, it is believed here, are being rushed to various points along the Flanders battle line in a new drive upon the coast and upon the French capital.

For the moment, of almost equal importance with the efforts of the army is the remarkable revival of activity in Russia itself. From all parts of the empire manufacturers, financiers and engineers are thronging to the cities with offers to help in the matter of army supplies.

At three points on the Dniester, the Austro-German forces were repulsed, according to the official statement, under date of June 23, given at the headquarters of the general staff.

CONFESSED 13 MURDERS.

Negro Hanged Regrets he Didn't Make it Even Number.

Birmingham, Ala., June 26.—Syd Jones, hanged in the county jail here yesterday, left a note in his cell in which he confessed responsibility for 13 murders.

Two of his victims were white men, one a Mobile and Ohio brakeman and the other a Minnesota deputy sheriff. The others were negroes.

Jones, in his letter, named among his victims, Thomas Thompson, Chas. Bennett and Deputy Sheriff W. S. Moseley, of Crawford, Neb.; Shay White, Thomas Shay and Sam Lee, Monterey, Cal.; Pattie Quiergo, a Mexican, at Fort Wingate, N. M. and John Littlejohn, an Indian, at Sheridan, Wyo.

The unarmed railroad brakeman he killed at Boydwell, Ky.

"I am sorry I missed getting Richard Moore, September 12, 1912," Jones wrote. "Just one more would have made an even number."

KITCHENER FOOLED THEM.

London Journalist Tells of Raising Of Army of 4,000,000.

New York, June 26—J. Herbert Duckworth, the London journalist, gives in the American Magazine under the title of "Lord Kitchener's Great Bluff," a report of how England has secretly raised an army four times as large as she has admitteh.

On account of the strict censorship imposed by Lord Kitchener, no English journal has published the real facts, the editors state.

"How Kitchener's army was secretly increased from 1,0000,000 to 4,000,000 men right under the very noses of the ubiquitous German spies is one of the most amazing stories of the war," writes Mr. Duckworth.

"This grim joke on the Kaiser was concocted by Lord Kitchener himself He commandeered the services of the press to assist him to carry out the great bluff.

"When the British Secretary of State for War first conceived the idea of putting into the field 4,000,000 men, he realized that it would be a grave strategic blunder to allow the enemy to know what was really afoot Rather, the game should be to call for 1,000,000 men, and then present the world with stories lamenting the fact that, at last, the British empire was about to crumple up because the men of England had not the pluck to defend it. The scheme worked out admirably.

"The campaign of silence was conducted on strictly scientific lines. The newspaper editors were first warned that any indiscretion would mean a court-martial, under the Defense of the Realm act, on charges of having 'spread reports likely to interfere with the success of his Majesty's forces.' They were instructed to publish only the recruiting returns sent out by the War Office. Independent census taking was strictly forbidden. All articles on the new army and even pictures of soldiers had first to be submitted to the censor. A permit was required even to own a camera.

"One Londor editor refused to 'stay put.' He published a picture of some soldiers without the permission of the censor. Lord Kitchener sent for the offender.

"'A second indiscretion,' he explained, 'will mean a court-martial and jail.'

"'On what charges?' stuttered the astonished editor.

"'Never mind,' answered Lord Kitchener; 'we will clap you into prison first and find the charges after the war is over.'

"When it came to moving the new troops to France extraordinary precautions were taken to mislead the spies. The regiments were not all transported from Southampton to Boulogne or Havre. Instead they were shipped from what were really out-of-the-way and inconvenient ports—Bristol, Avonmouth, Cardiff, Swansea and Barrow, for example—to French ports as far from the firing line as St. Malo, Brest and even Bordeaux on the west coast and Marseilles on the Mediterranean.

'Troop trains were invariably moved at night with drawn blinds. Oftentimes they were run half way around the country before being sneaked alongside a transport. Not even the officers were aware of the ultimate destination—whether it was to be France, Egypt, India or the Dardanelles.

"The engine drivers were changed every 20 miles or so, and the captains of the troop ships received their final instructions by wireless after they had put to sea."

GERMANY WOULD AVOID TROUBLE

Belief in Berlin That Chancelor's Policies Are Pacific.

WANTS FRIENDSHIP.

German-Americans Responsible for Much of the Bad Feeling Between America and the Fatherland.

Berlin, —June 26—A strong editorial in the Berliner Tageblatt, a powerful exponent of the German chancellor's policies, was expected today to have a most important influence on the German-American situation.

The Tageblatt, in the first comprehensive survey of the misunderstanding growing out of the sinking of the Luistania, appealed to the people, both of Germany and of America, to view the situation sanely and not to be misled by "jingoes."

The editorial, it was the opinion here today, will go a long way toward checking a reaction which is expected before the next German reply is sent to Washington.

"The newspapers of America and Germany should employ to the best advantage an exchange of notes, clearing up the earlier misunderstanding which influenced the recent sentiment," said the Tageblatt. "It is evident that America was badly misinformed about Germany's attitude as Germany was about America's."

"The statement was even made that Germany was willing to draw America into the war. The German people and the German government cannot too emphatically assert their earnest desire to maintain relations of the utmost friendliness with the United States through all honorable means.

"The German cause in America also has suffered by the fact that the utterances of German-American citizens in the United States against the American Government have been falsely supposed to have been inspired by the imperial government. Nothing is further from the German mind.

COURT OF APPEALS.

Leo Kidd, Convicted of Murder, Denied Petition for Writ of Error.

Leo Kidd, convicted in the Hustings Court of Richmond, December 19, 1914, of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of Miss Pauline V. Thorpe, must go to jail and pay a fine of $500. Kidd has been out on bail since sentence was suspended in order that his attorneys might have time to carry his case to the appellate court.

Other proceedings in the Court yesterday were as follows:

SLATON TO HURRY AWAY.

Released From Governorship Today, He Will Leave Georgia.

Atlanta, June 26.—As soon as his successor, Judge Nat E. Harris, is inaugurated Governor of Georgia, Governor John M. Slaton plans to leave Atlanta on a long trip. Harris becomes Governor today.

Reports still continue that there will be a monster demonstration against Georgia's Chief Executive as a result of his ruling in the case. There will be thousands of Georgians present to attend the inauguration exercises.

Mass meetings continue to be held in all parts of the State, and particularly within a radius of 20 miles of Atlanta. There has been quite a change recently, however, in their nature. Several of them have been secret gatherings, and reports have persisted that there was bitter feeling manifested against the Governor, and even threats of personal violence. It is said that there was a meeting of a body of men a night or so ago at the grave of Mary Phagan, in Marietta, where oats were taken to avenge the death of the victim of the murder.

Another bill was introduced in the Legislature yesterday by Senator Eakes, amending the Constitution so that the Governor will not have the right to pardon or commute in capital cases unless the majority of the Prison Commission recommends.

One company of State militia is still keeping guard at the Governor's home and martial law still continues there.

MILITARY FIELD MASS

Bishop O'Connell, of Richmond Will Preach the Sermon.

Plans were completed last night for the holding of a military field mass at Fort Myer, tomorrow morning at 10:30.. Preparations have been made for an unusually large attendance.

The Rt. Rev. Bishop D.D. O'Connell of Richmond, is to preach the sermon of the mass, the celebrant; being the Rev. P. D. O'Keefe, chaplain of the Fifth cavalry, U. S. A., stationed at Fort Myer. Daugherty, vice regent of Catholic University, assisted by Joseph A. Kuhn, of Holy Trinity Church, Georgetown.

The mass will be held just in front of the colors facing the river. It is in the nature of a patriotic demonstration, and it is planned to make the ceremony very impressive.

The mass will start with the grand procession, headed by the bishop, his attendants, and the visiting clergy, of whom there will be a number. The band of the Fifty United States cavalry will furnish military music, besides which there will be the vested choir of the Knights of Columbus, and the choir of sixty altar boys from Holy Trinity Church, Washington. Following them will be the drill squad of the Knights of Columbus. The troops from Fort Myer taking part in the ceremony will include a detachment of the Fifty cavalry, who will be in full uniform, but will be dismounted and marching as infantry

STATEMENT FROM THE MIDSHIPMEN

Issue "Declaration of Principles" in Scandal Examination.

HONESTY DEMANDED.

Ideals of Veracity Held Up as a Matter of Loyalty and Obedience at Annapolis Academy.

Annapolis, Md., June 26—Because they fell that "the public has not had sufficient information to understand clearly their attitude, and that grave suspicion is resting upon them, that ther whole code of morals is on trial," the members of the regiment of midshipmen have issued "A Declaration of Principles" in connection with the examination scandal at the Naval Academy.

The paper was filed with Superintendent Fullman, and with that officer's reply, was posted aboard all of the ships of the practice squardon today.

Decrying the necessity for making such a statement, taking the stand that such declarations of honor and patriotism ordinarily are looked upon as affectation coming from officers of the navy, the document says it becomes necessary because the "public seems to be inclined to believe that such principles are no longer held at the academy."

After referring to the oath of a midshipman to sacrifice all to patriotism and honor, the statement says that "no dishonest practice, where knowledge of such practice has been had by the members of the corps, ever has been tolerated in the regiment of midshipmen. Honesty has been demanded of every individual. For our mutual protection we have frowned on every leaning toward a policy less than scrupulously honest and frank. Far from countenancing irregularities where they have been detected, we have shown our willingness to aid the authorities in ridding the naval service of the undesirable member who may have been guilty of the misconduct.

"In view of this state of affairs, the honor committees of several classes were discontinued as unnecessary in a military institution, where the principles of honor and truthfulness are the basis of discipline. We have notwithstanding the discontnuance of the committees, upheld the ideals of honesty and veracity as a matter of loyalty and obedience.

"Therefore, since we believe the honor of the Naval Academy to be at stake, and since we consider it imperative upon ourselves to protect it, we send this declaration of our principles, in order that our attitude in this matter may be made clear, definite and final."

JACKSON LODGE WINNER

Alexandria-Washington Lodge Baseball Team Defeated by a Score of 18 to 13.

Andrew Jackson Lodge was the winner in yesterday's baseball game when they defeated Alexandria-Washington Lodge by the score of 18 to 13. There was a good sized crowd present and they seemed to enjoy the game although the players failed to show the expected speed that was promised.

As had been expected "Nick" Altrock, of Clark Griffith's forces, was the center of attraction. He started in to umpire and was the absolute dictator of the field. Police Justice Caton came in for his disapproval and the police justice was fined "ter beers" for smoking a cigarette during the progress of the game.

Bluemenfeld who started to pitch for Alexandria-Washington was forced to retire on account of having been hit by a ball pitched by Wade His place was taken by Pendleton.

In the sixth inning Altrock got tired of umpirng and decided to catch for a while. The last two innings he pitched for both teams.

PEACE ELEMENT IN GERMANY.

It has been sugested at times during the past few months that many people in Germany are tiring of hostilities, although the war party has ever been ready to ridicule any rumors to the effect that a peace party existed in the Kaiser's realms. During the enthusiasm of the nation eight or nine months ago, when certain victory was assured by the Kaiser and his warlike hordes, it was but natural for those who did not favor war to keep in the shade, but now that it has been shown that German soldiers are in no way superior to those of other nations and that the Fatherland is being subjected to a fearful drain by existing conditions, those who deprecated launching the country into war are becoming more outspoken, and their views are being openly expressed in the Prussian Chamber of Deputies.

The debate in that body Thursday showed the attitude of the German people toward peace and was discussed by progressive and socialist members.

Dr. Karl Liebknecht, one of the socialist leaders, and a champion of peace, said: "We have the masses with us, and the masses want peace."

Herr Braun, socialist, referred to the fact that certain persons are talking about continuing the war in order to realize "wild plans of annexation." He said a great majority of the German people wish imperatively that no opportunity for securing an early peace be lost, but they emphaticaly reject annexation plans of all kinds, particularly such as have been advocated by one German ruler.

"The German people want no conquests," Herr Braun declared. "They want no annexations. They do want peace without bringing humiliation or subjection to other peoples."

P. W. Massingham, editor of the Nation, of London, has come to the conclusion that there are real prospects for peace and that there is a distinct change in the tone of German sentiment, and he expounds this point of view in this week's issue of his periodical.

Herr Tepperlaski, a rich German sportsman connected with some members of the government, recently wrote two letters to the Deutscher Sportsman, attacking the policy of reprisals.

A new bund presses for democratic control of armaments and diplomacy in Germany. This, with a more definite statement of policy, is also the line of the social democrats, who crystallize on a repudiation of annexation, either of northern France on Belgium, and declare for the international limitation of armaments.

There is a bigger volume of independent thought in Germany than the tone of the government-led forces would lead one to suppose. But the more silent party seems to grow in strength so much so that, in spite of his violent opposition to the war, it is thought that if Dr Karl Liebknecht came up for re-election just now he would easily be returned.

KITCHENER'S TRICKERY.

Early last fall, shortly after the German forces had taken Belgium and were drawing dangerously near Paris, causing the removal of the French capital to Bordeaux, the invaders suddenly fell back about forty miles. This was mysterious, as the allies were but imperfectly mobilized at the time. Like the Syrian army of old, it could not be found in the morning. Some time elapsed before an explanation was given. Lord Kitchener had played a trick upon the Kaiser. He had had a report circulated to the effect that myriads of Russians were being secretly brought through the North Sea to England, whence they were being sent across the channel, and that the purpose was to sandwich the Germans between the Allies and the Muscovites. Trains at the time were passing through England with the blinds of the cars closed, while large Atlantic passenger ships were seen off the north coast of Scotland presumably for the purpose of transporting Russians. German spies made reports of these mysterious movements, and the Teutons moved back in order to escape what they supposed was a trap. It was subsequently shown that no Russians had reached the western zone. This "sell" on the part of Kitchener was of the greatest advantage to him and Joffre.

It seems that the English trickster is still at work. He has led the world to believe that England was experiencing the greatest difficulty in forming an army sufficient to meet that of Germany. He has pretended that he has been engaged in mobilizing but one million men, when it is shown that he is engaed in marshaling one which will number four million.

This stroke of good work of the silent Kitchener has placed upon the field an army very much beyond the numbers that it has been credited with having sent to the front.

GROWTH OF NORFOLK.

While Captain John Smith may not have dreamed when he explored what is now Hampton Roads that that vicinity was destined to become as a great maritime place as Liverpool or London, it has for many years been apparent to far-seeing people that Norfolk and Newport News are destined to be the greatest shipping point on the Atlantic coast. The late C. P. Huntington, President of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, half a century ago called attention to the certainty of the Norfolk becoming the New York of the south. His prophecy is coming true at this time, as during the past week the exports of the Virginia city by the seas were only exceeded by those of New York.

Should any one take the time to read the shipping news of the commercial papers which publish daily dispatches from most of the ports of the world they will find that arrivals from and departures for Norfolk, Newport News and other places in Hampton Roads exceed those of most ports on the Atlantic coast.

The British memorandum of 2,500 words, made public by the State Department yesterday, will have no effect on the protest which is now being prepared at the State Department against the British Order in Council of March 15. Officials of the department, who refused, however, to be publicly quoted, characterized the note as "evasive." Secretary of State Lansing said that it was not by any means certain that this government would take any notice of it beyond asknowledgment of its receipt.

With exports valued at $3,365,000 clearing through the custom houses in the Virginia customs district of which Norfolk is the headquarters, made it second in the United States in total value of exports during the week ending last Saturday. Considerable excitement was caused in and around the village of Hopewell Thursday when a dirigible airship was seen circling the skies above the Dupont property and City Point. Thousands of residents of the new city watched closely the movements of the machine, which circled about over the community for about half an hour. They declare that there were two men in the machine and that it landed about ten miles north on the James River. Officials of the Dupont Company attach no significance of the stranger's visit.

Mrs. Hubbard alleges that she spent several weeks at a Norfolk hospital in consequence of the accident and was obliged to undergo a surgical operation.

BALKANS ABOUT TO STRIKE.

Belief in Rome That Roumania Will Strike in About a Week.

Rome, June 26.—The Balkans are about to strike. Trustworthy information from diplomatic sources is to the effect that intervention will not be delayed beyond a week, and the entry of Roumania into the war will be signalized by a furious attack upon the flank and rear of the victorious Austro-Germans in Galicia.

Roumania probably will be joined swiftly by Bulgaria and Greece. The ingathering of the wheat harvest, which was the contingency to determine Roumania, has been accomplished. The Roumanian envoy at Vienna, according to diplomatic information, has been instructed to demand the cession of Transylvania or place the consequences of intervention upon Austria-Hungary.

Meanwhile, Greece's intervention is being unduly, delayed by the illness being unduly delayed by the illness affairs of the Hellenes probably will be met by the appointment of a regent, who is likely to be one of the king's brothers, since the crown prince is wholly under the influence of his German mother and indirectly under the way of his uncle, the German emperor.

The intensity of the Balkan situation is reflected in the capitals of the central empires, where the utmost is being made of the Teutonic success in Galicia as a deterrent to the states on the southeastern fringe. The pacific turn of Berlin in the German-American negotiations is another reflection of the imminent menace from the Balkan region.

What is said to be the largest real estate deal since the sale of the Hopewell site to E. I. Du Pont de Nemours Powder Company, was consummated this week by the Real Estate Development & Construction Corporation, when it acquired the 100 acres of Rev. D. E. Day, a retired minister, for a price said to be above $80,000. The land adjoins the Du Pont hodings, lying northwest of the town of Hopewell. Rev. Mr. Day came to Prince George County from Ohio, about five years ago, and bought 109 1-2 acres for $800 it is reported.
